Neighbors helping neighbors...

that is what the Union Aid Society is all about

The Union Aid Society has been a safety net for the Quaker Valley community for over one hundred years. We help seniors, families, single parents and children – any neighbor – when emergencies or hardships occur.

In 1898 a group of women from local churches united to help their neighbors. They established the Union Aid Society which has become a lifeline for residents of the Quaker Valley who need assistance with:

- Food
- Clothing
- Utilities
- Housing
- Medical Needs
- Child Care

We coordinate several annual community projects including Back-to-School Shopping, Thanksgiving Food and Children's Holiday Gift programs.

The Union Aid Society owns and subsidizes apartments for low income seniors and awards college scholarships to high school students living in the Quaker Valley school district.

The Executive Director, a licensed social worker, works with people in crisis and provides immediate help or refers them to other agencies who can better meet their needs.

The Union Aid Society relies on generous support from the community. If you would like to learn more about the Union Aid Society or wish to make a contribution, please call 412-741-9240 or visit www.UnionAidSociety.org.
